

WILSON NOTIFIED BY OLLIE JAMES

Permanent Chairman of Convention Tells Him of His Nomination.

PREDICTS VICTORY IN FALL

He Praises Candidate of Democratic Party and His Achievements.

St. Louis, N. J., August 7.—Senator Ollie M. James, of Kentucky, permanent chairman of the Baltimore convention, acted as spokesman for the notification committee which today formally tendered to Governor Woodrow Wilson the Democratic nomination for President.

Mr. James praised the candidate and his achievements, and he spoke a hearty word for the nomination of Mr. Wilson. He attacked both President Taft and former President Roosevelt, and held up the Republican party as "disheartened, discouraged and disorganized."

The Republican conduct of the campaign was condemned. He declared the Democrats were pledged to "clean stripes" for great victories. "This business," he promised support to the Democratic party, and the Democratic party was pledged to support the Democratic party when the "trust-baited" barons take their larcenous hands out of the pockets of the American people.

The motto "Thou shalt not steal" was a slogan from Democratic faith. Mr. James said, and he expressed a belief in the chairman that President Taft and former President Roosevelt have made against each other.

Mr. James' speech in full follows:

"Governor Wilson, the Democrats of this republic assembled in national convention at Baltimore on June 23, 1912, was truly representative of the people of this country. They represented a political faith that was born with the government itself and founded by the one who wrote its charter of freedom. The Democratic party has lived through all the years since then to see the parties that battled against it die in the political arena in which they fought. And now we behold the Republican party, once militant, united and triumphant, divided, torn and disheartened, presenting to the American people a strip-tease and a disfiguring view; and in the melancholy reflection of its leaders, we can almost hear them say: 'What shall I do? I may be a candidate, but I am not a man; I am a party, and I am a party that has lost the common people.'"

"On the forty-sixth ballot, in perhaps the most memorable and epoch-making convention ever held in our political history, you were unanimously nominated for President by the Democratic party, and a unanimous vote of the delegates, who were not only the most intelligent and the most patriotic, but also the most honest and the most courageous, gave you the honor of the nation's honor. It was the unthought, free voice and will of the people honestly selected delegates. There are no disgruntled Democrats sitting in their tents. The party who contended against you, for this prize, the loftiest political station in the world, take their defeat like the brave and sturdy soldiers they are, knowing that all could not achieve it, that the will of the people selected you."

"The Democratic party believes that you possess in splendid fulness those great attributes of constructive genius, inventive intellect and restlessness will that as transcendently best you for the great undertaking for which your party has nominated you. As the Democratic has bestowed upon you its most excited confidence by naming you for the highest office in the gift of your countrymen, they have done so with an abiding confidence that your people to all the people by lifting you to equal laws and equal opportunities and in fully appointing their burdens will meet in full and rounded measure all their hopes and expectations."

Public Confidence Aroused.

The principles for which our party

Signal Values in Trousers

Patterns that are on the top wave of fashion. Cassimere, serge, flannel and fancy fabrics, all in the sale!

BEGINNING THIS MORNING

One of the greatest Trousers Sales is inaugurated here that has brought your attention in years!

$8.50 and $9.00 Trousers reduced to ..... $6.75
$8.00 and $7.50 Trousers reduced to ..... $5.75
$7.00 and $6.00 Trousers reduced to ..... $4.75
$5.00 Trousers reduced to ..... $3.50

A big lot of Mixed Flannel Trousers that were $7.00 and $5 in a big sale at $3.50

White Flannel Trousers with pin stripes, that were—

$8.00 at ..... $5.75

$7.00 at ..... $4.75

The Big Suit Sale Continues!

O. H. Derry Co.

fought and for which we fell in the past campaigns have so aroused the public conscience, so touched the popular heart, have become so strong with the masses of the people, that they have drawn to the support of the Democratic party practically all unselfish Americans and have divided into irreconcilable factions the hitherto victorious Republican party, which in the past triumphed by opposing them. The Democratic party is striving to give to all the people a government so just with laws so righteous, that monopoly can find no hiding place and oppression no haven, one that will make every citizen a volunteer and every home a fortress against its invaders. We want to approach as nearly as possible to that ideal individualism for which republics were born, where the fruit of every man's toil can be enjoyed by his own family and every man's labor will bring to his own benefit. The safety and life of this government, this free republic, this home of constitutional liberty, rests not in its marching armies nor its mighty navy, nor its great wealth, but in its equal laws. Its national honor and in the everlasting truth that above cottage, hut and palace alike the rights of the Constitution rest, which is the spirit of justice, the greater attribute of God.

"Great as is the honor of being President of this splendid republic, yet the glory is not in the office, nor in the fame of having held it, but in the service rendered to the people, as which the public servant is properly judged, and that which makes immortal the name of those who hold it. And the people believe you would not put the armor on if you did not have a belief you would see a happier, more prosperous and a more contented people when you take it off."

"We all recognize the mighty task laid before you. Sixteen years of Republican rule have riveted the chains of monopoly, special privilege and greed upon every field of industrial and commercial endeavor, upon every market place, upon every avenue of commerce. Trust and monopoly, greed with arrogant and brutal tread, ruling with equal intolerance and oppression the market of the buyer and the seller. The Republican party has taught the trusts that it only backs and never bites. Their prosecutions against these outlaws are but a signal to play a rising market, to drive higher the value of the stocks they own, to increase the prices of articles that they sell, and to grant generous dividends to those who are interested in them. They would call for a President, and they believe they have found him in you, who will not alone proceed in candor against these men who defy the laws, oppress the people, drive men, women and children to desperation by reason of hunger and deny them the necessities of life by their monopolistic prices, who will demand that the stripes of the felon shall be placed upon them, one who will give a vigorous and unflinching democratic rule enforcement to the criminal laws against malefactors of great wealth."

Task for a Giant.

"It will take a giant for this task. A hero's heart, a soldier's courage, a democracy looking this republic over, and with millions to choose from, selected you as the man. No general ever commanded in a greater contest, the successful outcome of which will be the profit of so much good, or failure fraught with so much disaster. The people will be with you. They are going to give a Congress in sympathy with our cause, which will stand ready to aid you in all patriotic endeavor. The cheering masses everywhere, the officers in field, shop and factory, those who make up the great electorate, will stand for you in this contest."

"The Democratic party is the friend of honest business, whether the business be of little, and is striving to make it impossible for criminal business to destroy legitimate business and oppress the people. The party which held that you had the right by law to tax all the people to give a profit to the favored few, which was the utterance of the Republican national platform of 1860, undertook to put in operation in their convention system the same principle by the committee on credentials, giving a majority of votes to one of the candidates, which had been taken away from another, in order that he might profit by having the nomination. And yet some of those who have been playing this system for the benefit of the special and favored few at the expense of the American people immediately severed their connection with the Republican party, and in their distress, defeat and dismay went to that Book which offers a remedy for every wrong, balm for every distress, and found to their surprise and delight a commandment that a tax is a governmental agency and can be used only for governmental purposes and collected by the government itself, and not farmed out to favor-seeking and special privileged classes."

"Special Privilege Doomed.

"The American people demand the extinction of trusts and monopolies, not the plucking of a blossom here and yonder, but that the axe shall be laid at the very root of the tree of special privilege. They demand the application of a just system of taxation that shall meet the immediate and reasonable needs of the government administered in economy and honesty, that no tax shall be laid either to protect monopoly or to allow them to plunder the people."

"And in answer to the tariff, trusted barons, who are demanding that the tariff shall be taken out of politics when they have secured rates higher than ever before, hiding behind each one of them a monopoly that feeds upon labor's toil, we answer and say we will take the tariff out of politics when they take their larcenous hands out of the pockets of the American people."

"If elected, as now seems assured, it is our hope and belief that your name and administration will be enshrined in the hearts of the people, and that history may record the great truth that you found four country with all the avenues of commerce, the arteries of trade in the grasp of vicious monopoly and that you left it free, untrammelled, unshackled by law-protected trusts, and no longer dominated by privilege, that you, through your powerful talents and great genius, cast off the monopolies that held chained the commerce of the country; that you resisted the desperate stand of those money changers and did so in triumph. A former President charges the present President with being friendly with certain trusts and failure to prosecute them; the present President charges the former President with being friendly with certain other trusts and failure to prosecute them. We believe them both. What the people want, what they demand, is a President who will enforce the law to the utmost letter and prosecute all trusts; not one who is friendly with some and unfriendly with others, but a President friendly to the people and unfriendly to the trusts, and friendly to no legitimate business, one who will draw the sword of justice and law against all monopoly. For they know the cost of living cannot be reduced, relief cannot come to the people unless monopoly is destroyed.

"The people demand something more than a President who is friendly with the good trusts, which usually mean those that divide their loot of the people with their campaign managers, and unfriendly with the bad trusts, generally those that refuse to contribute freely. The people know that all these industrial pirates and monopolistic corporations have grown up and have been fostered and encouraged by the Republican party during its control of the government. The cost of living has increased enormously during this time, wages have practically stood still. No relief has come to the people, but we are to have the Republican party, if they are given further control of the government they will do in the future what they have failed to do in the sixteen years of the past—destroy their own creation."

Thwarted by Veto.

"When the Democratic party passed tariff reduction measures so just that the Senate, controlled by the opposition party, could not resist their passage, offering to the people cheaper clothes, to the farmer and laborer cheaper implements with which to till, cheaper meat and bread, to the hungry, reduced to the state of living greatly, privilege made his last desperate stand in the White House, and won by reason of the President's veto of these righteous measures. The American people desire to turn the clock back to a halcyon day of privilege into a fortress of justice to the people. The people want one in control there who will not resist the people's will, but who will lead the fight upon their behalf."

"New Jersey two years ago was one of the most unprincipled States in the Union. Special privilege was strongly entrenched; public service agencies had become the masters of the people; labor was burdened by laws not only archaic, but oppressive; ballot reform was greatly needed; boss rule had both thrived and prospered. The people of the great State were themselves really progressive; they wanted a voice to speak for them, a real fighter for the people's rule. They selected you for this mighty task, nominated upon a platform calling for justice to the people. You were elected by the people your Governor. Now we behold New Jersey in the majesty and glory of self-government. In less than two years, your master mind, your splendid leadership, your love of the people's rule, your belief that platform promises are to be carried out, have changed the hand of honor between the party and the people, broke the chains that bound New Jersey, and she stands to-day the redeemed Commonwealth. The other States of the Union watched your struggle to free the people here, and now they are ready to follow you for the whole nation what you did for a single State—deliver the government into the hands of the people."

"A committee, composed of the permanent chairman of the convention and one delegate from each State and Territory, was appointed to inform you of your selection as the nominee of the Democratic party for President of the United States and to request you to accept it, and the convention did me the honor to make me the chairman of this committee, charged with such a happy mission."

"Therefore, in compliance with the command of that convention, this committee performs that pleasing duty, and as the appointed agent of that great national convention, I hand you this formal letter of notification, signed by the members of the notification committee, and cordially congratulate you upon the platform adopted by the convention and upon that platform I have the honor to request your acceptance of the tendered nomination. And upon behalf of the Democrats of the whole republic, who are united, progressive and militant, we earnestly beseech you to accept our support, and may God bless you to a glorious victory in November."

present law with such laws, both civil and criminal, as will effectually punish and prevent those methods, adding such other laws may be necessary to provide sufficient and adequate means to processes whether civil or criminal, to disclose them and follow them to final verdict and judgment, thus overcoming in some degree the modesty of our courts in this pursuit."

forward to speech the crowd pressed gether he shook hands with more than 6,000 people.

It has been decided that Governor

Take the Popular

C. O. Sunday Outings

The Busiest Double Track Line, Combined rail and water trip.

Round $1.50 Trip

TO

OLD POINT, BUCKROE, OCEAN VIEW,

NORFOLK, CAPE HENRY,

VIRGINIA BEACH.

3 Trips Every Sunday.

W. M. J. D. A. M. and 12 Noon, giving ten minutes for the transfer via hours longer at Ocean View than via any other route.

Hot Weather

Stout people, people whose vitality is low, run down people, convalescents, tired people—all these dread the hot weather.

Intense heat causes diarrhoea, nausea, ptomaine poisoning, stomach ache, sleeplessness, prostration, apoplexy, rush of blood to the head, dysentery, and cramps, and the more run down the more liable to attack. To counteract this the system must be built up.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is the medicine you need. It is a gentle, invigorating stimulant that influences for good every important organ of the body. It is especially valuable to rebuild the system that has become run down and weakened. Strengthens the digestive organs and bowels, brings refreshing sleep, makes the day for us to live as it used to be. Our money will not buy as much. High wages, even when we can get them, yield us no great comfort. We used to be better off with much less. The majority of us have been disturbed to find ourselves growing poorer, even though our earnings were slowly increasing. Prices climb faster than we can push our earnings up. We know that they are not fixed by the competition of the market or by the ancient law of supply and demand, but they are fixed by the private arrangements with regard to what the supply should be and agreements among the producers themselves. Those who buy are not even represented by counsel. The high cost of living is arranged by private understanding.

All druggists, grocers and dealers, or direct, $1.00 a large bottle. Be sure you get Duffy's and that the seal over the cork is intact. Refuse substitutes and imitations; they are injurious. Send for free doctor's advice, together with medical book, let containing testimonials and rare common-sense rules for health.

The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Marshall will go into Maine on a stump tour in the last week of August just before the gubernatorial elections there, but that Governor Wilson will not speak in Maine until after the September State elections. Governor Wilson will leave Seattle early to tour for New York, where he will have his portrait painted by Seymour Thomas. The portrait will be used to make reproductions for campaign purposes and will constitute Mr. Thomas' contribution to the campaign. The Governor will sail for his portrait tour of Thursday and a part of Friday and return to Seattle probably Saturday.

Wilson's Address.

After thanking the committee of notification and expressing his profound sense of responsibility in accepting the nomination, the Governor said he realized that he was expected to speak plainly, to talk politics and open the campaign "in words whose meaning no one need doubt." And he said he would speak, he added, to the country as well as to the committee.

"We must speak," he continued, by way of preface, "not to catch votes, but to satisfy the thought and conscience of a people deeply stirred by the conviction that they have come to a critical turning point in their moral and political development."

"Plainly it is a new era," he went on. "It requires a restraint not to attempt too much, and yet it would be cowardly to attempt too little. In the broad light of this new day, we stand face to face with what we call liberty, not with questions of party, but with a contest for office, not with a petty struggle for advantage. With great questions of right and of justice, with the questions of national development, of the development of our people and of standards of action to less than of a better business system. The forces of the nation are asserting themselves against every form of selfishness, against every private control, and are seeking to bring about a new era of liberty and progress."

Two Great Things to Do.

"There are two great things to do. One is to get up the rule of justice and of right in such matters as the tariff, the regulation of the railroads, and the prevention of monopoly, the regulation of our banking and currency laws to the very uses to which our people must put them, the treatment of those who do the daily labor in our factories and in our homes, and throughout all our great industrial and commercial undertakings, and the political life of the people of the Philippines, for whom we hold governmental power in trust, for their service, not our own. The other, the personal duty, is the great task of protection, of keeping our resources and of keeping close to the whole people the doors of opportunity through which they must, generation by generation, pass if they are to make conquest of their fortunes in health, in freedom, in peace and in contentment. In the performance of this second great duty we are face to face with questions of conservation and of development, questions of forests and waterpowers and mines and waterways, and the building of an adequate merchant marine."

"We have got into trouble in recent years chiefly because these large things, which ought to have been handled by taking counsel with as large a number of persons as possible, because they touch every interest and every life of every class and region, have in fact been too often handled in private conference. They have been settled by very small, and often, deliberately exclusive groups of men, and undertaken to speak for the whole nation, and rather than to represent the point of view nor the knowledge of the people, they have been settled by a few men, and very ignorantly, and very shortsightedly, too—a poor substitute for genuine common counsel. No group of directors, economic or political, can speak for a people. They have neither the point of view nor the knowledge of the people, and they have not the courage to stand up to the people and to say to them, 'We are not even their partners. It is our duty, as trustees, to make what-indicated, and its foundations must not be too radically or too suddenly disturbed. When we act we should act with caution and prudence, like men who know what they are about, and not like those in love with a theory. It is obvious that the changes we make should be made only at such a rate and in such a way as will least interfere with the normal and healthful course of commerce and manufacturing. But we shall not at that account act with timidity, as if we did not know our own minds, for we are certain of our ground and of our object. There should be an immediate revision, and it should be downward, unhesitatingly and steadily downward."

The Cost of Living.

"The nation as a nation has grown immensely rich. She is justly proud of her industries and of the genius of her men of affairs. They can master anything they set their minds to, and we have been greatly stimulated under their leadership and command. Their barrels are many and very green. We must accord them the great honors that are their due, and we must preserve what they have built up for us, but what of the other side of the picture? It is not the easy for us to live as it used to be. Our money will not buy as much. High wages, even when we can get them, yield us no great comfort. We used to be better off with much less. The majority of us have been disturbed to find ourselves growing poorer, even though our earnings were slowly increasing. Prices climb faster than we can push our earnings up. We know that they are not fixed by the competition of the market or by the ancient law of supply and demand, but they are fixed by the private arrangements with regard to what the supply should be and agreements among the producers themselves. Those who buy are not even represented by counsel. The high cost of living is arranged by private understanding."

No Great Problem.

"I do not know any greater question than that of conservation. We have been a spendthrift nation and must now husband what we have left. We must do more than that. We must develop as well as preserve our water powers and roads and great waterways to the transportation facilities of the nation, to supplement the railways within our borders as well as upon the Isthmus. We must revive our merchant marine, too, and fill the seas again with our own fleets. We must add to our present post-office service a parcel post as complete as that of any other nation. We must look to the health of our people upon every hand, as well as hearten them with justice and opportunity. This is the constructive work of government. This is the policy that has a vision and a hope and that looks to serve mankind."

"With regard to the development of greater and more numerous waterways and the building up of a merchant marine, we must follow great constructive lines and not fall back upon the cheap device of bounties and subsidies. In the case of the Mississippi River, that great central artery of our trade, it is plain that the Federal government must build and maintain the levees and keep the great waters in harness for the general use. It is plain, too, that vast sums of money must be spent to develop new waterways where trade will be most served and transportation most readily cheapened by them. Such expenditures are no larger on the part of the government than they are national investments."

An International Highway.

"The very fact that we have at last taken the Panama Canal seriously in hand and are vigorously pushing it home is a sign of a nation that has awakened interest in international trade. We are not building the canal and pouring out millions upon millions of money upon its construction merely to establish a water connection between the two coasts of the continent, upon which a desirable and profitable trade is particularly dependent. It is a great international highway. It is meant to be a great international highway. It would be a little ridiculous if we should build it and then have no ships to send through it. There have been years when our ships and seamen were the sea of our ships and seamen. We must mean to put an end to that kind of thing, or we would not be getting on."

(Continued on Seventh Page)

NOTICE

Only one dealer in Richmond can sell you an

INNER-PLAYER

Piano

and that firm is

The Corley Company

213 East Broad Street.

Phone Madison 2586

ever arrangement of government will be most servicable to their freedom and development. Here, again, we are to set up the rule of justice and of right.

No Great Problem.

"I do not know any greater question than that of conservation. We have been a spendthrift nation and must now husband what we have left. We must do more than that. We must develop as well as preserve our water powers and roads and great waterways to the transportation facilities of the nation, to supplement the railways within our borders as well as upon the Isthmus. We must revive our merchant marine, too, and fill the seas again with our own fleets. We must add to our present post-office service a parcel post as complete as that of any other nation. We must look to the health of our people upon every hand, as well as hearten them with justice and opportunity. This is the constructive work of government. This is the policy that has a vision and a hope and that looks to serve mankind."

"With regard to the development of greater and more numerous waterways and the building up of a merchant marine, we must follow great constructive lines and not fall back upon the cheap device of bounties and subsidies. In the case of the Mississippi River, that great central artery of our trade, it is plain that the Federal government must build and maintain the levees and keep the great waters in harness for the general use. It is plain, too, that vast sums of money must be spent to develop new waterways where trade will be most served and transportation most readily cheapened by them. Such expenditures are no larger on the part of the government than they are national investments."

An International Highway.

"The very fact that we have at last taken the Panama Canal seriously in hand and are vigorously pushing it home is a sign of a nation that has awakened interest in international trade. We are not building the canal and pouring out millions upon millions of money upon its construction merely to establish a water connection between the two coasts of the continent, upon which a desirable and profitable trade is particularly dependent. It is a great international highway. It is meant to be a great international highway. It would be a little ridiculous if we should build it and then have no ships to send through it. There have been years when our ships and seamen were the sea of our ships and seamen. We must mean to put an end to that kind of thing, or we would not be getting on."

(Continued on Seventh Page)

Broad Street Bank

A Plan

For the Merchant

Whereby you can turn into profits a goodly percentage of your gross purchases. Ask our cashier about this plan, and also about the many other ways in which this bank HELPS MERCHANTS GROW.

Accept this invitation. You incur no obligation in talking things over—you may secure important information.

W. M. HARBISTON, President
J. W. ROTHERT, 1st Vice-Pres.
J. O. G. WALKER, 2d Vice-Pres.
ANDREW M. GLOVER, Cashier

ASSETS OVER TWO MILLIONS

Buffalo Lithia Springs Hotel

OPEN JUNE 15th TO SEPTEMBER 30th ONLY

The buildings are on the cottage plan and are sufficient for the comfortable accommodation of two hundred and fifty persons. No Malaria. No Mosquitoes. Buffalo Lithia Springs are located in Mecklenburg County, Virginia, in the "Buffalo Hills," 500 feet above the level of the sea, and are reached from all directions over the Norfolk Division of the Southern Railway.

This water is prescribed in all Uric Acid Conditions, Gout, Rheumatism, Calculi of the Kidney and Bladder, Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Gastro-Intestinal Disorders, Neuralgias, etc.

For full information and pamphlet of Medical Opinions and Clinical Reports write to BUFFALO LITHIA SPRINGS WATER CO.

BUFFALO LITHIA SPRINGS, VIRGINIA

SLIDEWELL HALLMARK SHIRTS

and a freely sliding tie starts you right for the day. They've banished tie-tying troubles for millions.

The little linen shield, found only in Slidewell Collars, guides the tie safely over the head of the back button. Say farewell to the morning collar-and-tie struggle. Say "Slidewell" to any live haberdasher.

15c—2 for 25c.

Hall, Hartwell & Co., Troy, N. Y.

can be had from the same store. Their quality and style will positively surprise you.

At $1.00, $1.50 and up

You can rarely get better value, even in other good shirts at the next higher prices. Guaranteed color fast.

Slidewell Collars

and a freely sliding tie starts you right for the day. They've banished tie-tying troubles for millions.

The little linen shield, found only in Slidewell Collars, guides the tie safely over the head of the back button. Say farewell to the morning collar-and-tie struggle. Say "Slidewell" to any live haberdasher.

15c—2 for 25c.

Hall, Hartwell & Co., Troy, N. Y.